

Build-A-Bear Workshop Founder and CEO Announces Retirement

January 31, 2013

ST. LOUIS--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 31, 2013-- Build-A-Bear Workshop, Inc. (NYSE: BBW), an interactive entertainment retailer, today announced that its Founder, Maxine Clark, has announced her plan to retire as Chief Executive Bear (CEB). Ms. Clark, 63, will continue in her current position until a successor has been named and a successful transition has occurred. She will remain as a member of the Build-A-Bear Workshop Board of Directors. The Company also announced select preliminary unaudited fourth quarter fiscal 2012 store and e-commerce sales results, as well as expectations for certain balance sheet metrics at year end.

“Creating Build-A-Bear Workshop and nurturing the Company from a fledgling start-up to a global retail brand has been one of the greatest experiences of my professional life. I have met so many wonderful people – associates and Guests – which made my decision to retire as CEB a difficult one,” stated Maxine Clark, Chief Executive Bear. “Although our business has experienced challenges over the past few years as consumers have reduced discretionary purchases, our strategic plan and key initiatives are beginning to work. I believe now is an opportune time to attract a new chief executive to take this incredible brand forward and for me to take my entrepreneurial experience and combine it with my passion to improve public education in our region in a more significant way. We have made great progress in education reform in the St. Louis area, but more is needed so that all children have the chance to achieve their dreams just as I have.”

“Maxine Clark has been the inspiration and driving force that resulted in Build-A-Bear Workshop becoming a global retail entertainment brand,” said Mary Lou Fiala, Non-Executive Chairman of the Board. “Through her vision, Build-A-Bear Workshop has achieved status as a favorite brand known to families worldwide. I am confident in our business plan. The Board is working closely with Maxine and the executive team to achieve our goals and execute our long term strategies.”

On a preliminary unaudited basis for the Fourth Quarter, the 13-weeks ended December 29, 2012:

- Consolidated comparable store sales are expected to decline 1.7%, representing a marked improvement from the 11.1% decline in third quarter fiscal 2012;
- Comparable store sales in North America are expected to increase 1.5% and decline 11.4% in Europe;
- Consolidated e-commerce sales are expected to increase 14.0%, excluding the impact of foreign exchange;
- The six stores that feature the Company’s newly imagined store design are expected to report an average 30% increase in sales in the fourth quarter of 2012 from the fourth quarter of 2011; and

- The Company noted that it strategically increased investment in SG&A to support its long term growth strategies and that it expects a reduction in its UK performance versus the 2011 fourth quarter. This combined with anticipated nonrecurring charges are expected to have a significant negative impact on fourth quarter profitability.

In addition:

- Inventory at year end is expected to decline from the prior year end on an average square foot basis; and
- Cash at year end is expected to approximate $45 million.

The Company also remains on track to close 50 to 60 existing stores in fiscal 2013 and fiscal 2014 to reach its optimal store base of 225 to 250 stores. These select store closures are expected to transfer approximately 20% of sales to other stores in the same markets. In addition, the Company continues to expect to relocate and remodel between 40 to 50 existing locations in its new store design by year-end 2014.

The Company noted that it is in its normal year-end closing and review procedures and the final results for the fourth quarter and fiscal year 2012, the 13-week and 52-week periods ended December 29, 2012, may differ, subject to year-end closing procedures and/or adjustments and should not be viewed as a substitute for annual financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

The Company expects to report full results for the fourth quarter and 2012 fiscal year on February 14, 2013.

“Our preliminary sales results point to an improved comparable store sales performance versus the third quarter and included the continued success of our six stores in our new store design, which experienced average sales growth of 30%. In the UK, comparable store sales declined driven by the ongoing challenging economic environment. This combined with increased expenses and non-recurring charges are expected to negatively impact our fourth quarter and full year operating performance versus last year,” Ms. Clark continued. “As we begin 2013, we are pleased to see our strategies begin to gain traction. During holiday our increased brand marketing investment resulted in our Guests favoring the Build-A-Bear Workshop experience as a gift for family and friends.

“This led to increased gift card sales in North America and the UK during the fourth quarter and has translated into a notable improved sales trend in the beginning of the first quarter as these cards are redeemed. The actions we are taking to close and reposition stores within markets, remodel existing stores to our successful new store design and support the brand with a re-invigorated brand marketing campaign are expected to position our Company for improved profitability and growth. I am confident that our seasoned and committed leadership team will take the Build-A-Bear Workshop brand to even greater heights and equally grateful for the unwavering support of the Build-A-Bear Workshop associates and Guests who helped me bring the vision for our Company to life. They are truly the heart of our brand.”
